

January 20, 2009

Dear Floodplain Administrators and OFMA members,

Now is the time to register for one of the February 12, 2009, Floodplain Management workshops. On this date, both the Floodplain Management 101 and the Substantial Damage Estimator (SDE) workshops are being held in Norman, on the OU campus. The SDE workshop is presented by OFMA.

This gives you a great opportunity to receive 6 CECs for this fiscal year. For Floodplain Administrators, these 6 CECs meet the requirement for Accreditation and Accreditation renewals. For CFMs, these 6 CECs bring you that much closer to your requirement for the year.

If this date does not fit in well with your schedule, you may want to check out other dates that are available. We are providing multiple opportunities for your scheduling convenience. For a listing of all your other Floodplain Management workshop opportunities, please go to the OWRB website at www.owrb.ok.gov and check out the wide variety of dates available.

For those of you who are interested in learning more, beyond 101, you will notice we have two new workshops available this year. Besides the Advanced workshops, we have the SDE mentioned above, also the Letter of Map Change (LOMC) workshop. Both the SDE and LOMC are available on two different dates this year. While you are on the OWRB website, please take advantage of the convenient on-line registration. We need you to register.

Thank you very much for your interest and commitment to Floodplain Management! If you have any questions or need help registering, please contact Cathy Poage, in the OWRB Woodward office, at 580-256-1014.

Sincerely yours,

Ken Morris, CFM
